SHOOTING BEE AT CROFTON WOUNDS ONE.

Walter Bowling and Wm. Jones Exchange Several Shots.

FELL OUT OVER CROPS.

Jones Catches Three Bullets From Bowling's Pistol.

Wm. Jones, a cropper on the farm of Walter Bowling near Crofton, was shot and slightly wounded Tuesday by Bowling. Bad feeling had been engendered in a dispute over the corn crop and in a suit in the magistrate's court at Crofton. Monday the point in dispute was decided in favor of Bowling and an attachment on the corn was dismissed. The next day Bowling went to the crib to get the corn and Jones was on hand and opened fire, shooting twice at him. Bowling returned the shots with a pistol, three shots taking effect in Jones' forehead, hand and shoulder. The wounds were slight and Jones rode to Crofton to have them dressed. Bowling gave himself up and will plead self defense.

STOCKHOLDERS' MEET.

Old Directory of Tobacco Company Re-elected.

The stockholders of the R. T. Martin Greenville Tobacco Manufacturing Company held their annual meeting at the office of the company here Monday afternoon. The old directory was re-elected for the year 1905 and the report of the Secretary and Treasurer was read and approved. The officers of the company will be chosen at a meeting to be held next week. The President reported a healthy condition of affairs and a prosperous year just closed. The company's business extends over a dozen or more states and they are taxed to their full capacity in filling orders.

NUMEROUS RELATIVES

Here, Had John Randle, who Died in Tennessee.

John D. Randle, son of T. N. Randle, of near Hampton Station, Tenn., and a cousin of Messrs. Geo. E. and W. F. Randle, and Mr. Eugene Wood, all of this city, died last Thursday night. He was 30 years old and a member of the Baptist church.

His illness started from a bone felon which had been lanced. Blood poisoning set in, but the physicians succeeded in combatting this disease and he had nearly recovered when he had nervous prostration. Paralysis of the brain, which caused his death, followed the latter spell.

LEFT CHILDLESS.

By a Double Affliction in One Day.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hampton, of Trenton, lost two little girls, their only children, Tuesday, of whooping cough and pneumonia. Katherine, aged two and a half years, died at 3:30 and Minnie Lee, aged one year, died at 5 p. m. Both were buried together yesterday at Benbrook. The bereaved parents have the sympathies of many friends in their double affliction.

Caused His Death.

Gilbert Allen, a colored boy ten years old, hurt his hand with a toy pistol Jan. 2 and died one day last week from lockjaw, resulting from the wound.

KENTUCKY THOROUGHBREDS IN KENTUCKY.

Adelbert Stud Written Up By a Bluegrass Paper With Illustrations.

WILLIAMS & RADFORD.

History of the Rise and Development of the Race Horse Industry.

It must be conceded that in the immediate vicinity of Lexington are clustered the most famous lot of stock farms to be found in any one section of the country. From this fact the impression is frequently gotten that the breeding of thoroughbreds is not attempted elsewhere in the State. As a general rule this is true, but to it there is at least one exception which must be made—the Adelbert Stud of Messrs. Williams & Radford at Hopkinsville, says the Kentucky Farmer and Breeder, illustrated write-up from which the salient points are represented.

Christian county has proved and is proving that it can produce thoroughbreds comparable with the best. The industry there is comparatively new. Even now after several years of remarkable success by the men who were pioneers in it, it has enlisted but few results. Gradually, however, it is growing, and the prospects are that the next ten years will witness a number of breeding establishments of greater or less magnitude which will do their part towards making Southern Kentucky as well as Central Kentucky a factor to be reckoned with in the thoroughbred world.

Pioneer in the Industry.

In 1890 Dr. W. W. Williams, who had been a successful practicing dentist in Hopkinsville for a number of years, began the acquisition of a few select thoroughbred mares. These he bred to the stallions of various establishments in Tennessee and conducted a small business successfully until 1885. That year he formed a partnership with Maj. C. S. Radford of the United States Navy, and the two bought the stallion imp. Albert. The spring of 1885 Albert served about a half-dozen mares, among them the afterwards-famous Hoodoo, who, to the cover of Albert, produced the following spring the good stake mare Jinks.

At the fall sales of 1885 Messrs. Williams & Radford, who in the meantime had acquired a farm of some hundred and sixty acres on the edge of Hopkinsville, were liberal purchasers of mares. Among others they bought Hypocrite from the Castleton Stud of Mr. James R. Keene. She was in foal to Kingston. Their first public sale of yearlings was held at Cincinnati, the spring of 1897. At that sale the filly by Kingston out of Hypocrite was offered and that filly proved to be the sensational Admiration. She was bought by Mr. T. C. McDowell for $800, with the understanding that Messrs. Williams & Radford would buy her back at the purchase price whenever Mr. McDowell chose to return her, in order to use her for breeding purposes. The spring of her two-year-old year Admiration showed remarkable speed, but she developed a bad case of rheumatism and was, therefore, unable to start.

At the inaugural sale of Messrs. Williams & Radford the first filly by Albert out of Hoodoo was also offered. She was bought by Mr. J. W. (Bud) May, who named her Jinks. Later, as a two-year-old, she was sold to H. M. Zeigler. In his colors she won many races and that filly was sold to Mr. Whitney and proved a good stake winner as a

HAPPY HOOLIGAN

is Big Laughing Success to be Presented Here.

"Happy Hooligan," that comic character taken from P. Opper's clever caricatures by Frank Dumont and placed in fancied scenes, which smacks of reality and are spiced with abundant side-splitting scenes and rib-tickling wit, in which that noted character appears, has evoked an instantaneous amount of enthusiasm and won a substantial monetary support such as no musical farce has done in recent years. The big laughing success with its cast of great artists will appear at Holland's Opera House on Tuesday night, Jan. 17. The piece parades with bright lines, and the music has a rhyme and jingle of pretty and catchy songs up to the standard of light opera. The principal characters are in the hands of Frank McNish, John Price, Charles Graemlich, Ruby Raymond, Eva Thacker, Charles Saunders and Joseph Pettengill.

Remarkable Sales Record.

The first Eastern sales of Messrs. Williams & Radford was held in the spring of 1898. They offered twelve yearlings and received for them $6,777. Of these twelve six proved stake winners. Mesmerist, Herbert, Marlbert, Shoreham, Fleuron and Markcheek, and of the entire twelve there was only one which did not prove a winner at two years of age. Indeed, due almost entirely to the winnings of these yearlings, Albert headed the list of winning sires in 1899 with $95,975 to his credit.

In June, 1899, Messrs. Williams & Radford sold eleven yearlings in the East and received the remarkable price of $21,530 for the bunch. In that lot were Bonniert (National Station race and other stakes), Mintage (full sister to Mesmerist, bought by Mr. A. Featherstone and second in two big stakes), Military, Picardy and Edinborough. In 1900 the twelve yearlings offered by the firm brought $18,587. The best of them was Hatasoo, one of the fastest mares that ever raced in the East. In 1901 their offering of twenty yearlings aggregated $22,000. In 1902 eighteen yearlings brought $23,000. In 1903 fourteen yearlings brought $16,000, but this year the seventeen which they offered sold for only $10,000. This year's offerings would undoubtedly have commanded higher figures except that they had been much retarded and were in bad condition from a prevalence of distemper. The showing, however, for each of the several lots offered is perhaps as remarkable as could be cited by any small breeding establishment in America.

The Adelbert Stud.

The farm of Messrs. Williams & Radford is known as the Adelbert Stud (the German for Albert) named, of course, in honor of the horse that is at its head and to which its fame is due. As stated before, it embraces 100 acres and lies just outside the city limits on the edge of Hopkinsville. Through good luck its owners were enabled to purchase it for practically a song. With the improvements which they have put on it and with the growth of the town in that direction, it could now be sold for many times the original purchase price.

There are about thirty mares on the place, which is the largest number that have ever been trained there. The policy of Dr. Williams, who is its active manager, is to confine his stud to a small, select number of mares, so that he may continue to give them the same careful attention that he has devoted to them in the past. It is probably this very close attention to them and the equally laborious pains that are taken with the yearlings that has kept the stock in the condition to command the remarkable prices for which it has sold. In the fall of the year they have been weaned, the yearlings are all broken, not only to halter, but to bridle as well. Their mouths are thus gradually hardened, so that when time comes to train them they are neither frightened nor hurt by the bit. For some two or three months in the spring before the time for them to be offered for sale in the East, they are given a careful system of exercise. Each youngster in turn is taken every day around the private track of the farm, held by bridle and led by a man on horseback. Thus they are early taught to follow their muscles and strengthen them, and to become accustomed to the winter's grip of the bit.

Feed is Cooked.

Another important feature of the farm is that both mares and yearlings are fed all winter long four times a day, the last feed of each half measure being given at 10 o'clock at night. The feed used with them is all cooked. It is a mash of ground oats, corn and bran, which is thoroughly cooked in a steam feed cooker which Dr. Williams himself invented. This method of cooking has been customary in England for years, both for breeding stock and for horses in training, but is just now being introduced into this country. Dr. Williams was probably the first breeder in Kentucky, if not in America, to adopt it. The cooker which he invented and which has now been patented and is on the market, was pronounced this fall by Mr. Douglas H. Grand, of England, to be superior to any cooker used in that country. No detailed description of it will be attempted here, but it may be said to be beyond doubt thoroughly adequate to its purposes and most convenient in its arrangement.

The barns and outbuildings of Adelbert Stud are probably as complete and as well located as those of any stock farm that might be named. They are clustered in the rear of the residence at a suitable distance from it and form a sort of court there. Thus all the stock, when housed, is so close at hand that it may readily have the personal attention of the proprietor and he is enabled to give his personal supervision to details which would be impossible were the buildings not so compactly placed.

A Remarkable Percentage.

Several years ago Gen. W. H. Jackson, the famous owner of Belle Meade Stud in Tennessee, was authorized by the statement that 90 per cent of the get of Albert had been winners and that this was a larger percentage than stood to the credit of any other horse in breeding history in either America or England. Whether or not this percentage still holds, it must be conceded that the horse's showing, considering his opportunities, has been truly remarkable, and though he will soon be twenty-three years old he should be anticipated if several years to come do not witness his continuous remarkable showing by his get. He is as strong and robust and virile-looking as he was six or eight years ago, and his owners confidently believe that there is a long time of usefulness in the stud yet before him.

Others Take it Up.

Encouraged by the success of the Adelbert Stud, a number of other gentlemen in the vicinity of Hopkinsville are engaged to a small extent in the breeding of thoroughbreds. Notably among these is Mr. W. A. Radford, whose Oakhurst Farm is located near Pembroke. Mr. Radford has 10 mares and weanlings. The mares have all been bred to Adelbert and Herbert. Mr. Ward Claggett has five mares, Mr. D. C. Settle two, and Mr. Lee Elliott one. There are also a few other thoroughbred mares scattered through the county, the property of different ones. The industry, however, is growing and will grow much more rapidly than in the past, particularly if the same success continues to attend Adelbert Stud, which there seems every reason to expect.

BABYLON BARMIDS BRIBED

Female Drink Dispensers of Ancient City Used Modern Methods to Avoid Exile.

A recent translation of King Hamurabi's code, written about 2,250 years before Christ, giving an insight into the life of the great Babylonian king, has been the subject of the day in which the exile question was handled by its legislators.

Nearly all the dealers of wine and liquors at that time were women, as many of the laws translated from the code speak only of women as sellers of drinks. Several measures were taken against those who adulterated the wines or mixed them with water, so as to safeguard the purity of the article for the use of the public.

The barmid was held responsible for disorderly scenes or drunkenness in her premises, and death was the penalty for those who did not denounce all cases of drunkenness to the police. Those women who were employed in the temple were forbidden to enter public hostelry and the penalty of death, and even drinking in private was forbidden to them.

Special police officers were detailed for the enforcement of the exact laws in the city of Babylon, but then, as well as now, the officers charged with the duty were to be believed the code in use, either negligent in the performance of their duties or too willing to accept the bribes of the barmids in the shape of drinks, or even money.

Forced to Starve.

R. F. Leek, of Concord, Ky., says: "For 20 years I suffered agonies, with a sore on my upper lip, so painful that I could not eat. After vainly trying everything else I cured it with Bucklen's Arnica Salve. It's great for burns, cuts and wounds." R. C. Hardwick's drug store, only 25c.

FAST FLYER.

From Chicago to Florida Goes Into Commission.

The Chicago-Florida Limited, the spectacular truck flyer from the Northwest to the Land of flowers, went into commission Sunday, the first train passing through Hopkinsville at 12:01 a. m., Monday. This flyer originates in Chicago and runs to Chicago and Eastern Illinois Railroad, being taken up next by the Evansville and Terre Haute Railroad, and by the Louisville & Nashville Railroad at Nashville to Atlanta and from there to destination by the Central of Georgia Railroad, the Georgia Southern & Florida Railway and the Atlantic Coast Line.

The Limited leaves Chicago at 1:10 in the afternoon and reaches St. Augustine, Fla., at 9:25 p. m. the next day.

The equipment of the train will be the same as last year, and it is probable that the flyer will be run for a longer time, its period of operation extending well into April.

Republican Committee.

Next Saturday will be an important day for Christian County Republicans. Their county committee has been called by Chairman E. B. Long to meet for the purpose of arranging for the nomination of a county ticket. Several hot races are in prospect, notably that between Charley Prowse and Lawrence Yonts for county attorney.

"WEARY WILLIE."

Fine Attraction at the Opera House.

Merit will success if properly managed. "Weary Willie Walker," the big sensational comedy drama, now in its third season, furnishes the strongest evidence to prove the quotation true, for nothing but success has met this popular play since its first production. The company engaged in the presentation of this play is conspicuous for its general excellence. Several noteworthy players are in the cast which is both large and expensive. Comedy situations are, as a rule, hard to write, but Owen Davis, author of "Weary Willie Walker," has plentifully supplied this play with humorous and laughable characters and lines.

This popular attraction will be seen at the opera house to-morrow night, and it is for the benefit of our home fire department, and our citizens, every one of them, should turn out and patronize this company, as it is a first-class one and they are assured of getting their money's worth, besides helping a good cause.
